National Alliance BULLETIN

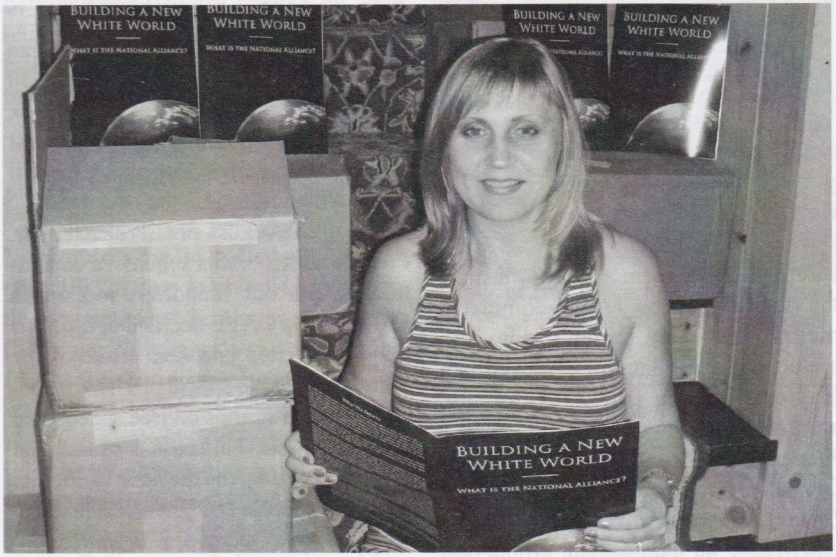
August 2015



Lana Williams of the National Office sits among thousands of Building a New White World: What is the National Alliance? booklets hot off the press from the printer.

New Alliance Recruiting Tool

National Alliance policy is to have each month's BULLETIN mailed by the last day of the month. We missed our deadline this month by a few days, and we apologize for the unavoidable delay. We do hope, however, that you are pleased with one of the things we worked on in August: our new, expanded booklet Building a New White World: What is the National Alliance? which is enclosed. With 16 pages, in magazine-size full color format, and printed on high quality stock, it is a substantial improvement over previous editions.

Members can purchase these excellent new recruiting tools in bulk ($3 each, 10 for $15, 25 for $30, 100 for $110, shipped; make checks payable to National Vanguard Books), or can simply supply us with valid mailing addresses of potential recruits along with $3 for each name, for us to mail directly — and the National Office will pay for envelopes and postage.

Building a New White World will favorably impress the intelligent, discriminating men and women we want to recruit — those who share our sense of urgency and who have the capabilities we need to build our organization.

We did receive some responses from our enclosing a copy of the National Alliance membership application with the July BULLETIN, but not as many as we'd hoped. At this critical stage in the rebuilding of our Alliance, every new member we recruit counts a great deal. Now more than ever, we ask each of you to do your part.

New Audio Books to Include Fame of a Dead Man's Deeds

In the last few months, our online magazine nationalvanguard.org has published seven audio books by authors Bradford L. Huie and Tom Watson, all related to the centenary of the Leo Frank case, works which dramatically illustrate the duplicity of the Jewish-dominated media. Currently under production are books by our late member William Gayley Simpson (the encyclopedic and semi-autobiographical Which Way Western Man?) and Professor Robert Griffin (The Fame of a Dead Man's Deeds, a biography of Dr. Pierce), the latter being an independent production to be distributed by National Vanguard Books and other outlets.

McCorkill Estate Update

Dear Chairman Williams: I want to thank you for the generous donation of $1,000. Unlike so many, you have put your money where your beliefs are. This battle is vital for several reasons. Behind the attack on the McCorkill will is the "Southern Poverty Law Center." The poverty pimps, along with the Canadian affiliate of the ADL — the "League for Human Rights" (but not for free speech) of B'nai B'rith — which intervened in this case are America's largest anti-free-speech organizations. It is important that we not let them set a precedent to deny the National Alliance the funding willed to them because the Alliance's views are deemed "contrary to public policy."

Your support for this appeal is an investment in the future of the National Alliance. A victory will mean a substantial sum of money will, as Robert McCorkill wished, help sustain and aid in the revival of the visionary work of Dr. William Pierce. — Paul Fromm, Director, Canadian Association for Free Expression (CAFE)

Chairman Williams adds: The "battle" to which Paul Fromm refers is CAFE's decision to seek "leave," meaning permission, from the Canadian Supreme Court to appeal against the 30 July decision of the New Brunswick Court of Appeal nullifying the bequest of our late member Robert McCorkill to the Alliance.

In a 25 August press release, Mr. Fromm wrote, "After extensive consultations with our supporters in Canada and the U.S., CAFE decided to take this very costly step and seek leave of the Supreme Court to appeal this horrific decision which stomps on free speech and property rights. This case is of national importance. It opens the door to endless litigation whenever a bequest is made to a controversial person or organization. It nixes the right of a person to dispose of his property as he sees fit.... This is one of the most serious cases in which CAFE has ever been involved: Freedom of belief, freedom of expression and property rights are on the line."

The Canadian Supreme Court grants leave in only about 10 per cent. of cases. But, if accepted, it will be just the beginning of a monumental, historical legal fight that could cost our side an estimated $50,000. It will be a fight based on principle, and one that many outside of our Alliance should support. The petition to seek leave will be submitted by the end of September, but the decision by Canada's highest court to permit or deny could take another six months.

Creative Activism in Dixie

Two National Alliance members and their friends in North Georgia decided to spread the Alliance's message using 200 helium-filled, white balloons with nationalvanguard.org printed on each one — and our "They Hate Us" flyer attached. The massive balloon convoy was last sighted drifting toward Alabama.

NARRG Fishing Expedition Curtailed

A hearing was held August 24 in Virginia on the so-called "NARRG" plaintiffs' motion to compel production of documents by the National Alliance. Chairman Williams retained counsel and filed a motion to quash several subpoenas which had been improperly served on the Alliance, its banks, and on the SPLC, in order to protect the confidential and private information of Alliance members, supporters, book customers, contractors, and staff. Our counsel also requested that the court grant a protective order to seal all such documents from publication. While some documents will have to be produced as part of the usual discovery process, the court granted the protective order that will shield members' and supporters' private and confidential information from the gossipy and vindictive "NARRG" grouplet.

Also, the court has given Chairman Williams an additional month to prepare an answer on behalf of the Alliance as a corporate entity, since that issue was previously unresolved. The Alliance will be given the opportunity to answer in its own best interests and not just be a bystander in this case.

While our Chairman, William White Williams, was arguably the strongest and longest-term public critic of Erich Gliebe's governance of the National Alliance, the NARRG plaintiffs have ludicrously alleged that Chairman Williams is somehow secretly in partnership with Mr. Gliebe. The Chairman does not take this personally, however: His focus is strictly on the best interests of the Alliance. He continues to work with expert attorneys to protect our legal rights, so we can concentrate on building our strength and propagating our vital message.

There will be more to report on this case in the September BULLETIN, including some surprises in store for the NARRG co-plaintiffs — as Chairman Williams can now finally go on the offensive against them, now that they have dragged the Alliance into their destructive lawsuit. Former Chairman Erich Gliebe is the acknowledged defendant in this now-pointless suit, but the National Alliance should not be. Mr. Gliebe has not been an Alliance member for more than ten months. The six NARRG co-plaintiffs formally resigned from the National Alliance three years ago, haven't paid dues since, and are certainly not "in good standing" as they like to repeat to their well-meaning yet gullible marks in cyberspace. It can finally be shown in court that the plaintiffs — despite their blustery claims on the Internet and the tens of thousands of dollars they have paid their attorney — lacked all standing to bring any such action on behalf of the National Alliance against its former Chairman and board of directors.

This elementary fact is clearly shown by the Alliance's Articles of Incorporation, its bylaws — and is backed up by Corporate Code of the Commonwealth of Virginia. Try to imagine former customers (not even stockholders) of, say, AT&T, arguing that the entire corporation should be turned over to them because they didn't like the way it was being administered, and you'll have some idea of the absurdity of this suit.

The reason the NARRG case has lasted as long as it has is because Erich Gliebe didn't hire an attorney to defend against it until late in the game, and did not defend aggressively against NARRG's motions, subpoenas, etc. The case changes now that the National Alliance is "lawyered up" and ready to go on the offensive.

One monumental irony of NARRG's claim to be "reforming and restoring" the Alliance is that they are asking the court to dissolve the National Alliance, an extremely risky procedure, evidently thinking they would be entitled to our organization and its assets if a judge orders the Alliance's dissolution. But if our corporation were dissolved (an unlikely event), are NARRG and its dwindling handful of backers prepared to outbid the SPLC, with its $300 million endowment, for our land and other assets? These legally naive plaintiffs didn't think their lawsuit through very well when they initially sued Erich Gliebe for mismanagement and fraud. They should have been satisfied that they played a role in getting Mr. Gliebe to step down, and convincing the board to name his successor. Our Alliance is already restored and reformed, thank you very much.

The Power of Letters

A recent American Dissident Voices broadcast by Alliance Media Director Kevin Strom consisted of an open letter to Elon Musk, an extremely successful White businessman and innovator who has expressed concerns about the quality of future human populations. Upcoming programs will feature similar outreach to doers and thinkers whose words or actions indicate an awareness of racial realities, societal decline, or the dangers posed by the Jewish power structure. In every case, the program itself will be followed up with an actual hard-copy letter sent via postal mail, and email if available. But it's not just our Media Director who should engage in this process. Members with a talent for written expression are encouraged to write letters of their own to the individual we're addressing, which will show him or her that there is public awareness of — and support for — the open letter. That's what member and staffer Svetlana Williams did this month. Here are some excerpts from her letter:

Dear Mr. Musk: My name is Svetlana Williams. I am a Russian who has been living in the U.S. for ten years and who truly loves both Russia and America.

The purpose of this letter is to inform you about the "Open Letter to Elon Musk" written by a very smart, talented, honest and idealistic person I am honored to know, Mr. Kevin Alfred Strom.

In the 1990s, my husband Will Williams and Kevin Strom were top aides of a wonderful, idealistic person — and genius: physics professor Dr. William Luther Pierce. They both learned a lot from Dr. Pierce and he changed their lives forever.

Less than a year ago Will Williams and Kevin Strom had the opportunity to restore and develop the only organization that protects the rights of the White majority in the U.S. — the National Alliance. Dr. Pierce founded the Alliance. It was his life's work and greatest achievement...

We often hear scientists' warnings: "This kind of animal is about to disappear; a dangerous symptom of ecological catastrophe," and the like.

For some reason, these same scientists don't seem to be very concerned about the possible disappearance of our race — a race which has been at the forefront of progress and civilization.

The powerful enemies of our civilization are doing their best to promote racial mixing and "gender bending," extreme feminism, dysgenic birth control, etc. — mostly among advanced, cultured White people. Carried far enough, these things will eventually lead to the death of our race and our civilization itself.

Scientists predict that the world population will reach 9 billion by 2050 — with about 50% of that population being Africans. This dysgenic trend won't stop in 2050, of course. This is a matter of the gravest concern.

Mr. Strom believes that you, Mr. Musk, share this concern. That's why he decided to write his open letter to you.

These trends are shocking and ominous — and our recent behavior is suicidal. The mass media and Hollywood are no help, with their dehumanizing entertainment. They make the problems worse by teaching our children that white is black and black is white.

To me you are nearly unique, Mr. Musk. You sincerely care about saving the environment — and civilization itself. And you are working very hard for this purpose! Unfortunately, about 99% of the other men of the world, who were able to achieve great success in life like you, prefer to do the opposite.

I thank you very much, and decided to include several of our monthly BULLETINs and the booklet Building a New White World: What is the National Alliance? to give you some idea about our organization. If you find information in our BULLETINs of interest, we would be happy and honored to put you on our complimentary subscription list.

Thank you so much for your time, your genius, and your amazing, positive and productive achievements, Mr. Musk! Sincerely, — Svetlana Williams

Members can also help the Alliance by re-posting articles, or links to articles, from nationalvanguard.org — there are new ones there every single day — to all their social media accounts on a regular basis, helping to make the National Alliance a household word, the name that comes immediately to mind whenever one thinks of White interests or issues.

Selling Books at Gun Shows

Member JM has been selling our books — The Turner Diaries, Hunter, Serpent's Walk, and Gun Control in Germany at gun shows for many years. He reports that since he prepared the handsome book display that's pictured on the next page, his sales have increased considerably. Each book that is sold gets a National Alliance business card as a bookmark. We will send JM a stock of our Building a New White World: What is the National Alliance? booklets to include on his table with the other books.

Other members who would like to help the Alliance while generating some extra income for themselves using the same method should write to the National Office for bulk prices on books and other materials.

Correspondence

Hello, Chairman Williams. I've done some more soul-searching and anguishing over joining. I went back and looked over every possible group to join and I find virtually all of them to be over-the-edge, so to speak (I'm not interested in associating with any likely felons), or far too passive (I don't think "educational" outlets are going to get it at this point). As near as I can tell, the National Alliance is the only organization anywhere near the "sweet spot." So, I've decided to commit. I sent in my application and check today. I would be interested to know what options I have to help out. I'm a single father, so I have to play it fairly low-key for now to protect my daughter's interests. After she turns 18, I most likely will be willing to go "all in," even if that includes more personal risk. — DS, New Mexico

Hello there at the National Alliance: I want to salute those involved in resurrecting the Alliance. I had thought the organization was defunct.

I read the October-December 2014 BULLETIN you sent. Thank you for sending that reminder and for explaining the changes in the organization so clearly and directly. It sounds like there are big plans for re-building the NA — and America just needs it so badly. I can pay the new minimum amount of $20. I sent my application a few days ago, so look for it in the mail this week.

Dr. Pierce's work changed my life, especially The Turner Diaries. I see this book coming true, especially with an eagle's nest view here of Jewish-inspired Communism in Philadelphia. Sincerely, — FR, Pennsylvania

Greetings, Mrs. Williams! There is no need for you or your husband to thank me for my recruiting efforts. It's a labor of love — love for our race. I've recently completed David Irving's Hitler's War and this quote from Hitler on page 31 struck me as descriptive of the goals of our Alliance: "I set up my fighting manifesto and tailored it deliberately to attract only the toughest and most determined minority of the German people at first. When we were quite small and unimportant I often told my followers that if this manifesto is preached year after year, in thousands of speeches across the nation, it is bound to act like a magnet: Gradually one steel filing after another will detach itself from the public and cling to this magnet, and then the moment will come where there'll be this minority on the one side and the majority on the other — but this minority will be the one that makes history, because the majority will always follow where there is a tough minority to lead the way." A perfect summation of our struggle. Enclosed is $25.00 for 500 NA business cards. Sincerely, — JM, Massachusetts

Chairman Williams, I want to express my sincere appreciation and thanks for inviting me to the National Alliance West Virginia grounds earlier this month. Meeting the staff and other supporters and members for fellowship and an excellent meal was an uplifting experience, something I would love to do again as soon as circumstances permit.

Having seen with my own eyes how the Alliance is being re-staffed, that repairs to neglected facilities are being done, the garden planted and even harvested in part, and materials printed for distribution — all point to a positive future for Our Cause through the National Alliance. If anyone is in doubt that the National Alliance is going in the same direction as it was in the time of Dr. Pierce, let me testify that I'm an eyewitness and it is just as I've described.

[On the matter of NARRG] I'm saddened that former NA members behave like this — and in such a public way that the enemies of our people can't help but see! I've taken no oath, nor made any promises about upholding and maintaining the honor, respect, and love for our people; but I feel that we should have these things in our hearts and minds without having to go through those motions. These NARRG people seem to be lacking this, and it's just painful to see.

I'm compiling a list of things I'd like to donate to the Alliance, as expressed to me by the staff as being needed. Enclosed is a donation for any purpose you see fit. Let some of my strength donated become our strength to further the actualization of our Creator's Purpose. My best regards, — JM, Iowa

The Chairman responds: Thank you for this report and for your generous donation, JM. It is indeed a shame that a few former Alliance members have decided we are their enemies and have been trying to use the courts to destroy our organization, and then have grossly misrepresented the case on their Internet blog and social media. Our expert attorneys are defending the Alliance legally, under time-tested rules of evidence and proper court procedure — and I am paying them with my personal savings. Believe me, I wouldn't be doing so unless I was sure we will eventually prevail so we can all get back full time to the important business of rebuilding the organization Dr. Pierce left to us.

Commentary by Chairman William White Williams

It Takes Money

The word "decimate" is often used to describe great destruction, but its origin is from the Latin decimatus, from decimus (tenth) and decem (ten). To be decimated is to lose just ten per cent. of something: a fortune, an army. For example, my high school class had its 50th reunion last weekend and of the approximately 600 students in that class, about 60 have died. It could be said that our class of 1965 has been decimated.

When I became chairman of the National Alliance ten months ago it had not been just decimated, but nearly wiped out — even declared "long dead" in one of our enemies' publications. Alliance membership when I took the helm had declined from a high of nearly 1,300 (achieved soon after the death of our founder Dr. William Pierce) to a grand total of just 24 — you know who you are. That's a loss of more than 98 per cent. We have quintupled our membership this year from that bottom. Sounds impressive, but we know better.

It has been reported that, from the late 1990s up to the time Dr. Pierce died in 2002, our organization and various sister organizations generated around $1,000,000 in annual income. I don't know if that is true or not, but Alliance assets definitely exceeded that amount, and our organization was expanding. We still hold many of those valuable assets and are currently solvent. I just paid one half of this year's property taxes in West Virginia — more than $3,000 — to avoid penalties and interest.

Resistance Records was sold in 2013, before my tenure, and revenue from sales by more-than-decimated National Vanguard Books is currently negligible and will remain that way for a while. So our income this year has derived almost entirely from our members' and supporters' monthly pledges, and the occasional donations of a handful of members, the great-hearted few, who are determined to see the Alliance through this difficult rebuilding period.

I built our Tennessee headquarters building over a period of five years with my own money, buying materials as I could afford them, and mostly with my own labor. When I realized last year that Erich Gliebe was trying to sell Dr. Pierce's research library, and then another larger library, I sold the silver coins I'd been hanging on to for years and purchased those collections — moving them into the building I'd built so they could be preserved. We still have every one of those thousands of books.

Jean Williams

When I met my wife Svetlana in Russia in 2003, she was given full disclosure of my "Politically Incorrect" racial politics. Although apolitical, Lana married me anyway — but told me she couldn't be my Krupskaya. (Vladimir Lenin's wife, Nadezhda, the ultimate fanatical revolutionary mate.) After years of listening to me discuss racial politics and learning about my association with Dr. Pierce and the Alliance, she came to realize that all I'd been telling her was true. Look at Lana now; working daily at Alliance-building as an unpaid volunteer, absolutely dedicated to Our Cause. She accepted that the libraries I'd bought were worth divesting our "nest egg." She even accepted, once committed, my spending the settlement from a lawsuit, and more of our savings, to pay considerable Alliance debts and past taxes that had accrued under my predecessor. There wasn't much left of our savings after that.

I'm so proud to have had Lana stand by me. How did I get so lucky?

Had my dear mother not died on New Year's Eve and left to me a third of her meager estate, the Alliance might have already gone under because dues receipts haven't been sufficient to pay our mounting operating costs. I have put approximately $7,000 from my mother's bequest to me into our Alliance in the month of August alone. We can continue at this rate for a few more months.

My mother always supported my work as a radical political soldier for our race. (Other family members did not, for fear that it would embarrass them in the eyes of others and bring disapproval, not to mention hardship.) She met Dr. Pierce and Kevin Strom, David Duke, Ben Klassen, Gary Gallo, Gordon Ipock, Ron Doggett, and so many other outstanding leaders. She knew that what I was doing during all those years of struggle and disappointment was necessary and right. She once said, "Just because others don't believe you doesn't mean you are wrong, son."

So, please forgive this personal tribute to Jean Boring Williams, my dear departed mother, daughter of Ward and Naomi, who managed to live to the ripe old age of 91. She was the epitome of Aryan womanhood and would be happy to know that, as things have turned out, she helped to rebuild the National Alliance.

Now, racial compatriots, let's use whatever means we have at our disposal to raise our numbers. Responsible family members, friends, associates, neighbors — you know the kind of people we need. And you know your duty. W. W. W.
